Poetry.

Do You Think it a Sin?

Do you think it a sin in the gloaming
To sit near a neat fitting dress.
With the daintiest of the maidens within it,
And lily white fingers to press?
Or softly to lift a stray ringlet,
That floats over a bosom of snow,
Or to peep into eyes that are glancing,
From darkly fringed eyelids below?

Or to see just beyond where she's sitting
A something you ought to repair;
And pass your arm around her and fix it,
And then to forget your arm there;
Or, just in the fit of abstraction,
To tell her there's something you miss,
And while she's helping you to find it,
To steal from her mouth a sweet kiss?

And as she's reproving you mildly,
You draw in your arm rather tight
And tell her your'e sorry you did it,
If she does not think it quite right,
And then in your penitent moment
You say that to you it is plain,
You ought as a matter of honor,
To give her the kiss back again.

Yet how to do so is the puzzle,
For in viewing the matter all o'er,
If I give back the kiss I have stolen,
She might say I'd taken one more.
O, I'm sadly perplexed and confounded,
I want to be just and polite,
Don't you think that it were better to coax her
To give me to kissng the right?

I'm afraid I've committed a blunder,
And acted somewhere like a dunce;
I think I must get up my courage,
And ask her to wed me at once.
I've done it—and she has consented—
What a fortunate man I have been!
And how you may keep your opinion—
I don't think I have committed a sin.

Selected Story.

The Prison Surgeon.

It was a cold gray night, like all the nights of November beneath the sky of Brittany. Brest was asleep, and in its port could be heard only the creaking of the immense cables that held the vessels to the quays, and the measurred tread of the sentinels.

In the distance, the solitary edifice of the penitentiary, lit up in relief from the black masses that surrounded it. One of the divisions of the structure, however, was so dimly lighted as almost to fade into the night; this was the convict's infirmary. At the window of this infirmary a young man, wearing the uniform of a navy surgeon, stood, with his forehead pressed against the iron bars, deep in meditation.

"Of what good is life whithout happiness, and how happiness without wealth? First, riches! All else follows. To do some low thing and become rich, is the cowardice of a day that the rest of your life will make forgotten. As for remorse, if it exists, can it torment worse than want, than poverty? I am not so sure of the pains of a revolted conscience, and I am very sure of those born of indigence. The poor do not live."

* * * * * *

At this point of his reflections, an attendant came to announce that No. 7 was dead. The young surgeon quitted the window with regret, and turned toward the number named. On arriving at number seven, Launay lifted the covering from the head of the dead, and regarded it with curiosity. He passed his hand lightly over the protuberances of the cranium, studied for an instant the muscles of the face; then, as if resolved to verify certain observations or clear up a doubt, he ordered the transportation of the body to the amphitheater.

The guard entered with a litter, and the body was borne to the dissecting room.

Habituated as he was to such scenes, the unusual hour, the cold humidity of the place, and that fantastical uncertainty which night throws over everything, caused Launay a slight uneasiness. He hastened to prepare his instruments, approached the table, and uncovered the body of the convict. He drew the lamp nearer and seized his dissecting knife. But, as he grasped the arm of the convict, he felt a slight resistance. Surprised and almost frighted, he leaned over the body and raised the head to the lamplight: the eyelids opened!

Launay shrank back stupefied. The body rose slowly, sat up, and looked around with inquietude. The young surgeon stood immovable, not knowing what to think, when he saw the convict, Peter Cranou, slide engerly from the table and run toward the window. This movement was a flash of light. He saw he had been duped, and quickly recovering himself, he flew after the prisoner, whom he seized by the waist, at the moment he was about to leap through the window.

A struggle followed—a fierce, deadly struggle—which terminated by the cenvict's being flung to the floor.

"You see you are not the stronger." said the surgeon.

"Let me escape, in the name of Heaven! Mr. Launay. You are not put to guard."

"Impossible." And, as his prisoner made a fresh effort to disengage himself, he exclaimed: "You move not without my permission. I will not have it said that you made a fool of me."

"I want to be free! I must be free!" cried Cranou. "I starved myself for three days, to be sent to the hospital, and all for nothing. Oh! it is too much! too much!"

"Why do you wish to escape?"

"To enjoy life. I am rich!"

"Humph! You are happy."

Although this word had been uttered with irony, the surgeon's tone had something in it that the convict understood.

"Listen," said he, in a lower tone. "Would you also be rich? I have for two."

"Some robbery to commit with you, I suppose?"

"No; but money to receive. Aid me to fly, and I will share."

"Keep your romances for other ears," said Launay, ashamed at lending, despite himself, heed to the lies of a convict. "Return to your ward, and let this end."

"Hear me!" cried the prisoner, in an accent of truthfulness that struck the surgeon. "Promise to let me fly, if I shall prove that I do not lie."

"I don't risk much, I dare say."

"Swear then."

"Be it so: I swear."

"Well! in the sandy flat of Saint Michael's near the northern end of the Irglas rock, at the bottom of a hole six feet in depth, I have hidden a chest that contains 400,000 francs in bank bills."

Despite the efforts of Launay to affect indifference, it was evident he listened to the convict with greedy attention. He stood for a moment lost in reverie; but issuing suddenly from that preoccupation, he blushed as he encountered the look of Cranou fixed upon him, and said in a tone which he endeavored to render trifling:

"Your story is well invented, but it is old. Hidden treasures won't do, even in comic operas. Look me up some other romance."

The convict shivered. "You don't believe me?" he asked; then added quickly, "You shall have two-thirds—two-thirds!"

"Enough: not a word more. Get up!"

Cranou uttered a cry of rage, and threw himself on the ground.—"Oh! he won't believe me! he won't believe!" he cried as he rolled about, a prey to wild despair. As for Launay, he was in great perplexity. The convict's recital had stirred up the mass of unhealthy thoughts that slept within him. He broke away from the temptation, and approaching Cranou, seized him beneath the arms with the intention of carrying him back to his ward. Finding from the fellow's struggles, that he must seek assistance, he went out hastily, double locking the door behind him. He crossed into the infirmary, where he ordered two guards to follow him.

As they returned to the amphitheater, a shot was fired near them, and at the same instant a man, naked and bleeding, appeared staggering at the other extremity of the yard. It was Cranou, who, left alone, had succeeded in leaping through the window, and at whom the sentinel had fired.

The young surgeon arrived in time to receive him in his arms; but the ball had traversed his lungs, and in a few moments he was dead.

* * * * * *

Since his sudden opulence, attributed in society to an unexpected and distant heritage, but the veritable source of which the reader has doubtless divined, Edward Launay had quitted the service. He had sought distraction in a tour through Italy, Switzerland and Germany. It was in returning from this last excursion that chance had brought him to Badenviller at the same moment when Miss Morpeth, a young English lady, had arrived, with whose charms of mind and person he speedily became enamored. He profited by the freedom that daily communication establishes among bathers to approach her. English was familiar enough to enable him to converse with Miss Fanny in her own language, and this circumstance, which drew them together, had also the result of isolating them from the rest of the crowed. They grew, indeed, intimate, and were mutually happy, until the arrival of a Mr. Burns, an aged gentleman, who seemed a sort of confidential friend or guardian of Miss Morpeth.

* * * * * *

"Fanny, why do you not place me on the same footing with Mr, Burns? You accord him favors that you refuse to me."

"What favors?"

"A thousand! For example, this scarf; it was he who gave it you; you would not carry thus a present from me?"

"What difference?"

"I do not see: why will you not accord me that joy? Let me give you a clasp for this scarf, Fanny. Each time I shall see you, I will say that you desire to establish a sweet equality between Mr. Burns and myself."

"By-and-by," answered the young girl, willing to accede.

"I will send it to you this afternoon," said Edward.

At this moment some one entered.

An hour after, Launay searched the contents of a richly garnished casket, and drew out a magnificent cameo, which Fanny received the same day, with a note that contained only these lines:

"This is a family jewel; it belonged to my mother; it is she who offers it to her daughter."

As the young man had foreseen, these two lines dissipated the last scruples of the young girl, and when he descended in the evening into the parlor, where the guests of the hotel were assembled, he perceived Miss Morpeth's scarf clasped by the cameo. Edward thanked her with a look.

Soon after Mr. Burns entered. After saluting every one present, he approached Miss Fanny, and, as he leaned forward to speak with her, his eyes encountered the cameo, and he stopped short.

"What is wrong?" asked Fanny with surprise.

"Of whom did you buy this cameo?" he demanded, examining it more closely.

"I did not buy it," murmurmed the young girl, not daring to raise her eyes.

Mr. Burns made a quick movement of surprise.

"It was given to you, then?"

She did not reply,

"We will speak again of this. Only, be kind enough to trust me with it for a moment."

Miss Morpeth tremblingly detached it and placed it in his hands. He examined it with a singular attention. Suddenly a souvenir seemed to enlighten him. He pressed his thumb on a small protuberance at the side of the cameo, and it opened; he could not restrain an exclamation. He turned suddenly.

"Where did Mr. Launay get this jewel?"

"It was left him by his mother."

"He told you that?"

"He told me so."

The Englishman's brow clouded. His eyes were alternately turned on the cameo and upon Launay, who, placed at a distance, had seen nothing. With a sudden resolution he approached the group of guests.

At this time a Frenchman was speaking of the various dangers incurred by scientific expeditions.

"The dangers to which one is exposed in Europe are as great," observed Mr. Burns; "and but few travelers who have not risked life more than once. Not a dozen years ago, I, myself, was assassinated."

The woman uttered an exclamation of fright and curiosity. All the chairs were drawn up, and the circle closed aronnd Mr. Burns.

"It is a simple event, although it had for me most cruel results. After landing at Brest, I crossed Brittany in a postchaise. I was alone, and carried 400,000 francs in notes. We had to cross an immense sandy flat, called the 'Flats of St. Michael.'"

Launay, who had remained apart, trembled at the name just uttered. He raised his head and listened. The Englishman, who had glanced at Launay, continued:

"When we arrived at this point, the night was far advanced. After running a long time in silence over the sand, the vehicle passed before a big rock, stooping in the midst of that plain like an Egyption sphinx in the desert. 'The Irglas!' shouted the postilion, pointing with his whip to the enormous obstacle. We had passed the rock, when the postchaise stopped; I heard a cry and the sound made by the fall of a man. I sprang to the door, but had time to see nothing. I fell back again into the carriage, my head broken, and bathed in my own blood,"

A long murmur of horror interrupted him. He turned his eyes to Launay, whose paleness had become fearful. He resumed:

"When I came to myself, many days after, I learned that some fisherman had picked me up from the sand, where they had found the chaise pillaged and the postilion dead. I was three months recovering from my wound. Searches made for the assassins brought no result. I had reason to hope, for among the objects stolen was a casket that contained many jewels easy to recognize, and among them a cameo similar to this."

Mr. Burns showed the clasp. All were about to examine it, when Miss Morpeth uttered a cry. Every eye was turned in the direction her looks indicated; Edward Launay leaned against the wall, ready to fall.

"What is the matter?" cried the party.

Mr. Burns rose. "I can tell you—"

"Father!" exclaimed Fanny, springing towards him, her hands joined in supplication.

The Englishman paused and received her fainting in his arms. At this cry, the spectators looked round, stupefied. Launay heard it; he rose like a spectre, pressed aside those surrounding him, and perceiving Mr. Burns, who sustained his child:

"Her father!" repeated he, wanderingly. "Great heavens! her father!"

He cast a wild, staring look around him, then staggered toward the door, and disappeared.

After seeing his daughter recover sufficiently from the blow she had received, to assure him there was no danger, Mr. Burns had quitted her, and was walking with a pensive air in the chamber adjoining Fanny's, when the door opened and Edward Launay entered. Mr. Burns started with surprise and almost fear; but there was so much humility in the young man's attitude, that the Englishman was assured.

"You scarcely expected me, sir?"

"True. Assassins usually show more prudence."

"I should have shown more were I an assassin. I hope to undeceive you, sir."

Mr. Burns shook his head.

"Ah! haste not to judge. The proof that I have not put my hands in blood is easy to give. At the time this crime was done, I was, and had been for a year, in the Southern seas. These certificates of service are credible, I believe."

The Englishman read the paper Launay offered him.

"Whence this cameo, then? Why your distress in listening to my recital? It is evident you knew of the crime, if you did not share in it."

"I accepted the legacy; there is my fault. Hear me, sir; my moments are precious."

Launay then related all that had passed from the revelation of Pierre Cranou. When he had finished his long confession, from which he omitted not a single detail, he presented Mr. Burns a portfolio and a casket.

"Your 400,000 francs have been deposited with the State. The receipts are here, with an act from my hand transferring them to you. The casket holds your jewels."

Mr. Burns examined the papers and casket, Assured that nothing was missing:

"Sir," said he to Launay, with a certain embarrassment; "what you have told me is so strange, this restitution is so nnexpected, that I know not if I should thank or reproach you. You did commit a grave fault."

"A crime! Ah! I seek not to weaken the truth! With my poverty disappeared my repose. A shadow followed me everywhere! Always a voice seemed about to ring in my ears: 'Return me what you have stolen!' I carried poison with me everywhere, resolved not to survive my shame, if discovered."

Launay ceased. For some moments he had seemed to suffer deeply, and he carried his hand frequently to his breast. After a short silence, he resumed:

"But what are all these details to you; the recital of the temptations I resisted and at last yielded to can only interest myself. Your pardon. I retire."

He stepped toward the door, then stopped.

"We shall see each other no more," said he in a broken voice. "The farewell I now take may be as that of a dying man. Sir, I had hoped——Oh! that she might look at me again!"

He stopped and looked at Mr. Burns; but the latter had bent his eyes to the ground.

"I understand," said Edward, crushed. "You judge me unworthy of this last favor. Only those who are pure can demand pity."

He bowed and was about to depart, when Fanny entered. Her hair was in disorder and her eyes burned and flashed with the fire of fever. Launay uttered a cry. Mr. Burns ran to his daughter.

"What seek you, Fanny?" he cried. "Return."

"Ah! sir, do not deny me this last sad joy," said Launay. Fanny burst into tears. He turned toward her.

"Miss Fanny, be blessed for ever for these tears. I dared not hope to see you again."

"I have heard all!" she sobbed.

"You scorn me then?"

For sole reply, she ran to his arms. Launay held her there until Mr. Burns, recovering from the stupor caused by her sudden movement, seized his daughter's arm violently and tried to tear her from the embrace of Edward; but Fanny resisted.

"Leave me, father!" she exclaimed, deliriously, "I have promised him. I will not leave him."

"Fanny, you are mad. Sir, on your head, release your hold upon that girl!"

"Hear me, father. Abandon me and let me follow him. Say that to-day I died: this white robe is my shroud. Adieu, my father, you illustrious name shall not suffer. I am no more the daughter of a prince, but the wife of Edward Launay."

Mr. Burns could support this spectacle no longer. Carried away, he seized Fanny with one hand and raised the other menacingly at Edward.

"No violence, sir," said the latter, with an effort. Fear nothing. I will not accept the sacrifice of this angel; I cannot accept it. I would not live poor; have you thought I would live poor and dishonored? Take your daughter, sir. Do you not see that the poison was sure, and that I die?"

Fanny uttered a cry; she leaned toward Launay, whose knees began to sink beneath him, and caught him in her arms. Edward smiled, placed his hand over his heart, and letting fall his head upon her bosom, expired.—From The Aldine for July.

Commencement at Wake Forest College.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

We have for the first time, had the pleasure of witnessing the closing exercises of this Institution of learning, and hasten to give a brief account of the same for the benefit of your readers.

Tuesday (the 20th) was the first day of the Commencement. On Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock, we heard, with much pleasure, the Address delivered before the Alumni by Major J. H. Foote of Raleigh. His addres we think, was appreciated by all.

Dr. Curry, of Richmond, Va., delivered the Address before the two Literary Societies—the Enzelian and Philomathesian—at 11 o'clock, A. M. on Wednesday. We can say without prevarication that it was the best we ever heard. Its merit can better be imagined than described. The advice which he gave, if heeded, will do much good.

On Wednesday evening, Rev. J. D. Hufham preached the sermon before the Graduating Class. Text: Rom. 5 chapter 9 verse. "Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from the wrath through him." On Thursday, at 11½ o'clock, the Seniors delivered their graduating speeches, after which the Diplomas were presented, and the President delivered a baccalaureate address to the class.

After this ceremony was over, we returned to our respective Boarding Houses. The evening we spent in thinking of the good time we would have at night. Night soon came, and, at the tolling of the Bell, the Chapel and society Halls were more beautifully ornamented than they ever were before—not with cedar, holly &c., but with beautiful young ladies. We never saw such a beautiful scene before. We were somewhat astonished though, when we walked into the Chapel, to see so many young ladies, and so few young gentlemen; but they did not remain alone very long. Soon there were as many gentlemen as ladies. Who knows but what the young gentlemen were in the Barber shop, having their moustache dyed, head combed, high-heel boots blacked, &c., when they should have been entertaining the young ladies? It was not long though before every student, and a great many others, had some one to accept their arm, and take a promenade either up to the Halls, or in the Campus. The night, no doubt, was pleasantly spent by many, but we fear that others did not, or could not enjoy the occasion from the simple fact that they were not successful in obtaining an approval from their beloved ones.

Whether it was pleasantly spent by all or not, their long stay in the Halls and Chapel, led us to believe that they—especially the gentlemen—were well satisfied.

THE COUNTY COMMITTEE AND CANVASSERS.

In pursuance of resolutions passed at the Republican County Convention at this place on the 1st inst, the Chairman has appointed the following Executive and Canvassing Committees. The result of this campaign is of great importance to the people of North Carolina, affecting most materially their present and future welfare and prosperity. It is expected that these Committees will do their full duty. As to the Township Canvassers, it is expected of them to be active in getting the voters to attend the appointments of our candidates and speakers, to distribute documents and papers, and exert themselves in every way to achieve a signal victory over the revolutionary Democracy in their unlawful attempt to overturn the Constitution and Government.

EXECUTIVE REPUBLICAN STANDING COMMITTEE.

Thomas A. Sykes, Chairman, Wm. Morris, John Russell, F. S. Proctor, C. Guirkin, W. B. Pritchard and C. Griffin.

TOWNSHIP CANVASSERS.

THE CONVENTION A DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT.

If the present Constitution is obnoxious it must be so to the people alike. If it is oppressive and contains clauses of a burthensome character it operates in its hardships and severities upon all the people. Were this so it strikes us that Republican and Democrat would feel it alike and unite in a demand for amendment or change. But what are the facts? The Republicans are satisfied with it; the Democrats are not. The latter are clamoring for a change; the former oppose it. The Democrats are making it a party issue, thus satisfying every unprejudiced mind that their object is to accomplish party ends in the movement; the Republicans, acting as true and faithful citizens should do, oppose it on the high and patriotic ground that it will result disastrously to the State, retarding her progress, unsettling her organic law and endangering the best interests of her people.

Now we hold this fact to be a very strong argument against Convention. It is a valid reason why the Constitution should not be changed. No matter what political party may demand it, if insisted on as a party measure, the people should not only look upon the movement with grave suspicion but should always set the seal of their condemnation upon it in the most emphatic way possible. The Constitution is not designed for any political party, but for the whole people. It should never be tampered with in a partisan spirit. It is an instrument too important—too sacred for any such intermedling.

Should the present Convention movement succeed the precedent will be established that in this State the organic law can be changed at the mere will of an accidental majority. Let this be done and Constitutions hereafter will possess no more dignity or force than mere legislative enactments. One party in power to day will change to suit its party interests; another party in power to morrow change everything back again. Are the people prepared for anything so dangerous? Let them decide for themselves on the 1st Thursday in August.

"Let us have peace" is the sincere and ardent prayer of every true, North Carolinian. Give our grand old State a chance to advance and become developed. She has suffered from the disasters and devastations of war it is true, but she has suffered quite as much from the factious course of unscrupulous politicians and partisan demogogues. Do not let the old wounds be re-opened; do not let the destructive Democracy heap more burthens upon us than we can bear.

Most of the more rabid advocates for Convention have many poor men owing them debts. Those Conventionists are specially interested in the destruction of the Homestead that they may collect these debts at the tail end of an execution. Under the "Constitution as it is" the poor men are safe. Call a Convention and they will lose all.

THE GREAT MISTAKE OF THE SOUTH.

We are continually meeting prominent and intelligent Southern gentlemen who see and freely admit that the course pursued by the leading men of the South at the close of the war was a mistaken one. Admitting, as they generally did, that the cause for which they fought was irretrievably lost; that the doctrine of secession had been settled adversely and forever; that the institution of slavery was dead, and that they were glad of it—why should they not have frankly accepted the situation, conformed themselves to the new order of things, and sought political alliance with the party—foes though they had lately been—which represented the almost unanimous sentiment of the North, rather than with the feeble minority known as the Democratic Party, although proposing to be their friends, had proved treacherous to them in the hour of need? Had they done this, every Southern State would, years ago, have had entire and undisturbed control of its own affairs, universal amnesty would have been proclaimed, and the South would to day be in the enjoyment of a greater degree of unity, social order, prosperity and happiness than existed at any time previous to the war.

We know whereof we speak when we say that the great mass of the North felt friendly towards the South. The people were willing to over look the past and anxious to unite in healing the wounds of the strife, and in promoting the mutual prosperity and glory of the country. Well do we know that Northern capital and Northern energy stood ready to enter upon Southern fields, with immigration following in their train, to introduce new industries, restore the waste places, develope the resources and enhance the wealth of the South; but they were coldly received, socially ostracized, and in many cases actually mobbed and killed, and were finally compelled to abandon the country altogether as a practical field for business enterprize or personal comfort.

And what was the course of the leading and influential men of the South all this while? Instead of freely accepting the situation and welcoming those who would have proven real friends, they seated themselves beside their shattered house hold gods and in morose and sullen pride bewailed their reverse of fortune, and refused to take any part either in the political or industrial work demanded by the new order of things. Aye more, they permitted, and in many cases countenanced, the formation of roving bands of miscreants and cut-throats, under the name of Ku-Klux, who scoured the country, inflicting dire vengeance upon inoffensive Union men, murdering negroes, and creating a general reign of terror throughout the country. And all this time their professed friends of the North, the cowardly and sneaking Democratic Party that had originally encouraged the rebellion by promising aid which it never rendered—applauded them in thus continuing the fight after the war was over, assured them that all the "Radical" measures for reconstructing the Government were "unconstitutional, null and void," and led them to hope that the time would soon come when they could return to power under the "Constitution as it was" with all their old institutions intact.

Thus deceived and cajoled, the South has dragged along nearly six-years, which would more than have sufficed, under other auspices, to restore it to its ante-war prosperity. And now what do we see? This same Northern Democratic Party has the unspeakable effrontery to the present the South with a platform stolen almost bodily from the Republicans, asking the Southern people to accept it, and to help them to make it the medium of crawling into power. Well may they answer, as many of them do, that it would "be better for the Southern Democrats to make their bargains with the Radicals themselves and attain all the benefits to be derived therefrom."

The South will yet discover what a chivalrous people, as they claim to be, ought to have done long ago, that it is much safer after a battle, to intrust yourself to an open and manly foe by whom you have been vanquished, than to seek an alliance with a treacherous friend who first urged you into a fight, and then refrained from offering any assistance until it was all over.

A MERE BLIND.

The Conventionists try to blind the people by telling them that they restrict the Convention not to interfere with the Homestead. This is all gammon. Everybody knows that it is impossible for a Legislature to restrict a Convention. But suppose it could, is it not admitted that they are aiming to get rid of our present Judges? The Homestead provision of Constitution affords its main relief to the poor people by being retro-active. Now as the Conventionists assume to bind the Convention not to repeal it, why not also bind their prospective Judges not to decide it unconstitutional? Until they can do this their professions are of the kind

"That keeps the word of promise to the ear
And breaks it to the hope."

"The house of representatives selected seven of their most distinguished members to conduct this impeachment, and fully competent to do so, gentlemen of such learning and experience that they may literally be termed the "seven wise men" of that body. But we find united with them three learned members of the bar who have occupied the highest positions within the gift of the state, the very weight of whose names carries with it great influence." Why is such a course resorted to, so unprecedented that few if any examples of the sort can be referred to?

The above is an extract from the speech of Mr. CONIGLAND on the Impeachment of Gov. HOLDEN. And yet $3000,00 of the people's money was paid to these three extra and unnecessary lawyers.

No wonder our taxes were greatly increased by the Legislature. Let the people ponder over these things. They are deeply interested.

Mechanics of North Carolina! the present Constitution gives you a just lein law. By it you are made safe and secure in your labor. If you would not risk this, vote against Convention.

The negro has a right to vote—let him keep it; but strive so educate him to fitness for the high privilege conferred on him. Show him who is friends are, and we will eventually turn in our own favor the weapos so carefully forged for our destruction."

The above is an extract from a letter addressed to the New York Tammany Sachems at their pow wow on the 4th. This, we take it, means that the negro must be taught that the Democratic Party are "his real friends," but it is a rather laborious task to impose on the Democracy. The negro will prove himself to be even more stupid than the Democracy ever asserted him to be if he consents to imbibe that lesson.

Why is it that every man who has Notes and old debts against all his neighbors is vehement in favor of a Convention? It is because he hopes either that the Homestead and Personal Property exemptions will be repealed, or that the new Judges it is proposed to appoint will decide this poor man's law unconstitutional, and these old notes and debts can be collected. Poor men beware! There is danger. You have a sure thing. Keep it.

Poor men of North Carolina! if you would save your Homesteads and if you are opposed to re-enacting the old ca sa law, vote against Convention. A Convention at this time cannot and will not result in any good to you. There is danger. "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." You have got the bird. Hold on to it.

There are thousands of honest Democrats all over the country now seriously asking themselves the question: Why should the Democratic Party seek to maintain and perpetrate its organization when it has abandoned every distinctive principle for which it has for years been contending? And it is question worthy of consideration.

The Maine Republican State Convention was held at Portland on the 26th ult, and renominated our old friend Gov. SIDNEY PERHAM with much enthusiasm and unanimity. The Convention also adopted a platform consistent with sound Republican principles.

The way the people's money goes—the Four Thousand Three Hundred and Seventy three dollars and thirty cents paid the Reporter for forty four days work reporting the Impeachment trial. Oh Democrasy! what a costly thing thou art!

The Convention is a wicked attempt at revolution. It is a party monstrosity—a political abortion. Let the people strangle it at the ballot box on the 3d of August next. Then we shall have peace.

Very "hard cash"—the Five thousand six Hundred and fifteen dollars and fifty one cents paid the Democratic Public Printer because of the Impeachment trial. Tax payers! how do you like to foot the bill?

Hon JOHN POOL has issued an able Address to the People of North Carolina. Will publish it in our next issue.

OLD AND NEW for July begins the fourth volume with a characteristic, and, on the whole, excellent, number. At least five of the articles will enlist attention and repay perusal. Of these Edward Everett's College Life is one. It relates to his experience at Harvard in 1806 and 1807, and shows that as a boy of thirteen, he had his own ideas, and pretty clear ones, of the character of those above him, and of the nature and extent of their capacity as teachers and leaders. His opinion of the course of study was very low, but was apparently justified by its narrowness, crudity and poverty. In those days, as in these, however, the earnest student grew by the way he studied rather than by what he studied, and Mr. Everett certainly gained as much as could be gained. Another good article is that on "Examinations for Women in Cambridge," setting forth the purpose of these examinations, viz., to afford to all wishing for an opportunity to be examined by the tests employed in the University, and, if successful, to receive from the Board a certificate to that effect. The value of these certificates in obtaining employment as teachers furnishes the main motive for the necessary study. The other noteworthy articles are: "The Cambridge Union"—an account of the Combined Debating and Reading Society of Cambridge, England; "Recollections of Mexico and Buena Vista," and "A Theological Seminary."

The Court House Question.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., July 12, 1871.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

In order to a correct understanding of the purposes of the Commissioners of this County in submitting the question to the people, whether or not they are willing to be taxed to build a Court House, I deem it proper, in justice to the Commissioners, as well as to the voters who are to pass upon this question, to say that the design of the Commissioners was simply to test the sense of the people of the County on this question. And should a majority decide in favor of building the House, then the taxes will be laid in accordance with the plan proposed, (see public advertisement,) and all the money raised for the purpose will be applied, as fast as collected, to building the House. The work will be commenced early in the next Spring, and will be carried on continuously, until completed.

I further deem it proper to state, that the County is now paying $500 a year rent for a Court House, that the Public Records are very insecure, and that the County owns an eligible lot on which to erect the House. I will also add, that the taxes levied this year for County, special and all other purposes will be over $5,000 less than were raised last year. And if the people decide to commence the work next spring, it can be done without increasing the taxes over what were paid last year. The County expense can be paid and the County at the same time need not be encumbered with any additional debt.

The County now has less than $5,000 in bonds out, and these bonds have from one to six years to run before maturity—$1,000, or less, only falling due in any one year. And from careful investigation, the best information we can get is, that the old outstanding debt of the county (amounting probably to considerable over $20,000 when the present system of County Government was inaugurated,) will be nearly, if not quite paid off by the taxes of this year, and the current expenses of the County also met. This will leave the County probably only owing the Bonds.

Since over $6,000 of the taxes levied this year, are to meet the old outstanding debt, and since this will probably pay all that is due it is my opinion, that the County taxes may be considerably reduced next year, and at the same time the proposed Court House appropriation and the current County expenses met.

GEO. D. POOL,
Chairman Board Commissioners.

Europe.

From the papers of the 4th we learn that the French elections passed off quietly, the Republicans gaining a decided victory. M. Gambetta is elected to the Assembly both from Paris and Marseilles. M. Rochefort is said to be insane. Victor Emanuel has arrived in Rome, where he met with an enthusiastic reception. The English census returns show that the cotton manufacturing districts have decreased in population. A religious riot has occurred in Ireland.

From the papers of the 5th we learn that the French elections have resulted in Republican success, both in Paris and the Provinces. The French Government has asked for the removal of the German troops from the Paris forts. The Lower House of the Austrian Parliament has passed the Budget. After a brilliant review of the Italian troops at Rome the King departed for Florence.

From the papers of the 6th we learn that the latest classification of the new members of the Assembly gives 86 for the Thiers Government. A permanent camp is to be established at Satory. Civil law is to be immediately restored in Paris. The usual Fourth of July dinner was given by the American residents in London. Victor Emanuel has returned to Florence. A protest against the occupation of Rome has been made in the Spanish Cortes. The elections in Mexico so far are favorable to Juarez.

From the papers of the 7th we see that the French election returns show that the Army is nearly unanimous of the Republic. The Prussians have protested against the tone of the French press. Gen. von Moltke has paid a visit to President Thiers. Napoleon will soon leave England for Switzerland. Over one hundred miners have been suffocated in a Mexican mine. Minister Jay gave a dinner on the Fourth in Vienna, Count von Beust making a speech.

From the papers of the 8th we learn that the French Government has paid another installment of the war indemnity. Amiens has been put under martial law, in consequence of the murder of a Prussian soldier. The Prussian military law will soon be enforced in Alsace and Lorraine. The Pope announces his intention to remain in Rome. A vote of censure of the Government has been defeated in the Spanish Cortes. Freshets have caused much damage in England.

From the papers of the 10th we learn that a French ship has been wrecked on the coast of Africa, 150 lives being lost. The French army everywhere voted for Republicans for the Assembly. The Count de Chambord's manifesto is generally condemned. Holland has ceded the Island of New-Guinea to Great Britain. The Emperor William has been enthusiastically received at Ems. A serious election riot has occurred in Canada, a Government official being killed.

General Summary.

A business block in Bryan, Texas, was burned on Thursday night, causing a loss amounting to $100,000.

A Connecticut editor unkindly alludes to a rival editor's head as the Polar regions, because it is a great white bare place.

It is said that women now lecture on every subject but washing, darning and the economy of the household; all these things are sealed books to the strong-minded.

Josh Billings says that a large policy of life insurance doesn't exactly make a man's corpse smile at his widow, but it helps amazingly to get another fellow to do it for him.

Mr. Stephens is already experiencing some of the minor woes of journalism. In the latest copy of his paper received he says prominently, "for beautifully, in our last, read fearfully."

A fire in Bloomsburg, Penn., on the 5th, probably caused by fire-works, destroyed four business places, with the greater part of their contents. The loss is estimated at $22,000, mostly insured.

An old lady in Georgia who saw a locomative for the first time last week, looked at it curiously for a while, and then, as it came puffing along, inquired anxiously what pushed the thing along.

A Virginia editor has come to the conclusion that a man might as well undertake to hold himself at arm's length and then turn a double somersault over a meeting-house steeple, as to attempt to publish a paper that will suit everybody.

The Maryland Court of Appeals has affirmed the judgment of the lower Court for $20,000 against the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, of Newark, in favor of the widow of the late Rev. Henry A. Wise, Jr., of Baltimore.

The Louisville Ledger has brought down the Buffalo Courier at the first pop. The Courier thinks it was very unjust for the Ledger to assert that the Northern Democrats are arrogant and that they want the Southern brethren to take back seats.

An old colored washwoman, who used to groan over her tubs, found consolation in the hope that "she would soon be where robes won't need washing and a poor creature can upset her tub and dance on the bottom of it, singing glory, hallabaloo, forever and forever!"

At the examination of a parochial school a reverend gentleman was asking a class the meaning of words. They answered very well till he gave "backbiter." This seemed a puzzler. It went down the class till it came to a simple urchin, who looked sheepishly knowing, and said, "It may be a flea."

In The Columbus Sun of the 21st inst. the Hon. A. H. Stephens controverts The New-York World and the New Departure. Says Mr. Stephens: "If any Democrat has changed his opinion and come to the conclusion that the Radical policy was right, then it is not dishonorable for him to say so; but when he does it, the only honorable course for him to pursue afterwards is to go and join that party."

A West Virginia man thought to have some nice fun frightening a boy by playing panther, clothing himself in a panther's skin, and suddenly appearing before him in the woods near his house. But the boy failed to see the joke, good as it was. He just went back to the house, got his father's rifle, rested it on a fence, and shot that panther, and there was a funeral from that man's late residence two days after.

A New-Hampshire woman, it is said, recently conceived such a strong admiration for Charles Sumner that she wrote him frequent letters, informing him of her intention to become a member of the Senator's household. Of course her missives were never answered; ultimately she went to Washington to carry out her threat, when she was discovered to be insane, and sent to an asylum.

Samuel Buck, an eccentric character, died recently in Conneaut, Ohio, in his 85th year. More than 60 years ago he was jilted by a young woman, which so affected him that he retired from society and lived alone until the day of his decease. In public he donned man's habiliments; but under his own roof he wore feminine attire, declared he was Mrs. Buck, and always spoke of himself and desired to be spoken of as a woman.

A passenger train on the Nashville and North-western Railroad composed of two coaches and a sleeping-car, met with a deplorable accident on Mondy, at Harpeth River, about eighteen miles from Nashville. After the locomotive and baggage-car had crossed the bridge over the river, the bridge gave way, and the remainder of the train fell with it into the stream. Fifteen persons, so far as known at present, were killed, and twenty-three wounded.

Senator Morton has made a new departure. In a speech at the dinner of the Alumni of the Indiana State University, as a Western paper reports, he created quite a sensation when, in an able, logical and earnest address, he avowed himself in favor of conferring the right of suffrage upon woman and of relieving her from all legal impediments to seeking her living in the world and her position in the great society of human workers upon equal terms with men.

A newly-married French couple being visited with a serenade, the bride inquired its meaning. "My dear," replied her husband, "it is usual in this town of ours, when a gentleman is married, for all the ladies whom he has jilted or flirted with to bring him each a bridal present of a loaf of bread, accompanied with music." "Ah!" exclaimed his young wife, "love, why didn't you tell me of that before? How provoking! Why I could have made all the beaux that I have had come over from my town, and bring me each a bottle of wine. And then, dear, we would have had enough to be merry on, I dare say, for the whole year to come."

A Card.

The following Cards, Letters, &c., explain themselves. It is but just to me that those papers in the State that published the testimony of Mr. Badger should likewise publish the following. Respectfully,

D. McD. LINDSEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.

We the undersigned citizens of Currituck county N. C., have read with surprise that part of Mr. Rich'd. Badger's evidence, before the Investigating Committee of the General Assembly of North Carolina referring to what the Hon. John Pool is reported to have said at a meeting in the Governor's office in June 1870, of the character of our late county-man D. McD. Lindsey.

We have known Mr. Lindsey from his youth to the present time and know him to be a liberal, kind and humane gentleman and incapable of doing a mean or inhuman act. That humanity and liberality are the most prominent constituents of his character, none will question, who know him intimately. Wher Mr. Lindsey is known no vindication of character is necessary. We give this certificate to erase the false impression, the evidence of Mr. Badger has necessarily made of Mr. Lindsey's character on those who do not know him well.

P. H. Morgan, Atty at Law; T. C. Humphries; William G. Robertson; Jon. W. Evans, P. M.; Caleb T. Sears, County Commissioner; A. O. Dey, C. S. C.; W. D. Chaddic, C. S. C. Dare county; W. C. Stone, County Commissioner; Henry White, County Commissioner; L. N. Simmons, 8th B. T. T.; Mitchll S. Ferebee, C. S.; Joseph Mercer, J. P.; John F. Frost, Deputy Sheriff; Thomas L. Sanderson; E. H. Walker, Capt. North River Light House; J. W. Baxter, Public Administrator; Thomas Sanderlin, Member of Convention in 1865; H. M. Shaw, M. D.; W. H. Cowell, M. D.; V. S. McNider, M. D.; J. A. Mathias, Coroner; J. E. C. Bell; B. M. Baxter, Atty at Law; Jos. B. Morgan, J. P.; Wm. R. Gordon; Wiley Mathias, Register of Deeds; Alfred P. Frost; H. B. Ansel, J. P.; N. L. Walker, J. P. and Conservative Candidate for the Convention; E. F. Baxter; L. M. Bell, M. D.; William Sanford, Clerk B. T.; W. G. Granbury, W. D. Goodman, H. E. Baxter.

Socially I have always found Mr. Lindsey a very kind and humaine gentleman.

W. B. SHAW Attorney at Law.

I certify that I have known D. McD. Lindsey from my earliest boyhood and am well acquainted with his disposition, temper and character, and cheerfully say that I know the character given him by the Hon. John Pool in the interview said by Mr. Badger to have taken place in the Executive Office in June last, is a slander and without foundation for Mr. Lindsey would be as far from doing the inhumane and wicked acts therein attributed to him by Mr. Pool as any man in the State.

THOS. J. JARVIS.

I on several occasions denied the statement that Hon. John Pool had made proposition to Gov. Holden to loose men, upon the ground among many other reasons, that Pool knew Lindsey, and must have known that Lindsey's character was entirely different from that attributed to him. I know of no man less fitted for such work, because he is very kind and benevolent rather than cruel and malignant.

RUFUS K. SPEED.

I have read the statement in this paper made by the Hon. Thos. J. Jarvis and entirely concur in the same.

WM. F. MARTIN.

I know D. McD. Lindsey, and believe him to be utterly incapable of the atrocious conduct ascribed to him by Senator Pool, as detailed in the evidence of Mr. R. C. Badger.

L. D. STARKE.

WASHINGTON, June 30, 1871.

D. McD. LINDSEY, Esq., Dear Sir:—A friend of yours has written to me, (he says, without your knowledge) to give a statement in regard to the charge that I represented you to Gov. Holden, as guilty of piracy."

The simple truth is this: A small military force was deemed necessary to aid some civil authority, about to be sent into certain counties, to supply the failure of the local authorities to arrest and prosecute the perpetrators of reported outrages upon peaceable citizens.

It was suggested that the perpetrators were organized and armed and tenfold stronger in numbers, than the militia force about to be sent. It was necessary to select for this force, resolute men, who would firmly repel any effort to overwhelm them by numbers. I suggested your name, and in connection, mentioned the fact, that you had been a strong Confederate, and that I had heard of some resolute conduct, on your part, in the capture of a United States vessel.

The effort of the bitter, partisan press to use this to asperse your character is absurd, as all who know you well understand. Capt. Semmes, and scores of other Confederates, who performed notable acts of resolute courage, have been charged in the same way, as pirates and robbers. And the Confederates quite as frequently denounced union officers in the same way. The partisan press, which now uses this against you for a purpose, would have applauded you for it, at the time, and denounce as yankee slanderers, all who accused you of doing more than a true Confederate ought to have done on the occasion. They mean it, not so much as an attack on you, but to give point to their false aspersions upon the motives of Gov. Holden and others in their efforts to suppress the Ku-klux outrages. They may, probably, have some spite against you for changing your party relations.

There was, really, no purpose to use unnecessary or unlawful violence; nor, indeed, any unlawful means whatever. But, in case the troops were beset by an armed mob, in overwhelming numbers, resolute and determined men were deemed necessary, who would maintain, with unflinching courage, the supremacy of the laws. I am immeasurably astonished, that any one, whatever, should have misunderstood me on the occasion referred to.

If it be worth while, I would add, that having long and intimately known you, and being thoroughly acquainted with the people in your section, I know that you are not, and do not have the character of being, a lawless or violent man. Very truly yours, &c.,

JOHN POOL.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is sc

NORTH CAROLINIAN

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1871.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call attention to the following new advertisement in this issue.

Shall we build a Court House.
Election.
Dissolution.
To the Public.
Meeting of Stockholders
Court Notice.
New Goods.
Sewing Machines.

Local and Personal.

Blanks of all kinds constantly on hand at the NORTH CAROLINIAN Office.

☞ Dr. SPEED will resume the practice of Medicine on the 15th inst.

☞ See new advertisement of F. M. COOK, Agent of Sewing Machine

☞ That Watermelon with the "compliments of J. W. TURNER" was appreciated.

☞ Mr. FOWLER is now ready for customers. His new store is filled with a well selected assortment. See his advertisement "up side down."

☞ A discussion took place at Newland on Saturday last between J. L. CHAMBERLAIN, Esq., of Camden, for Convention and C. W. GRANDY, Jr., of this place, against it.

☞ By proclamation and notice it will be seen that the question of taxation for building a Court House will be submitted to the people of this county at the August election. We are in favor of it, and will give some reasons why in our next and future issues. We call attention to the communication on the subject this week.

☞ Through the efforts of Dr. UNDERWOOD a private subscription has been raised sufficient to erect a good bridge over Charles Creek. This is virtually a donation to the city, as the building of this bridge would soon have been demanded by the public. The work on it will be commenced at once.

☞ A correspondent writing us a short account of a Convention meeting says the Speaker on the occasion reminded him of the rebuke given to one addicted to telling extravagant yarns: "Friend what a pity it is a sin to lie; it seems so necessary to thy happiness." Who the speaker was we do not say. It might be considered personal.

☞ Hon. C. L. COBB returned home on Friday evening. We are glad to be able to announce that his health is much improved. He has been indefatigable in his efforts to serve his District and to promote the best interests of the State. No man in the North Carolina delegation stands higher in Washington.

☞ Some weeks ago we announced the death of an aged gentleman in Mt. Hermon township, this county. On the 7th inst his wife, Mrs. PRISCILLA LOWE, departed this life, aged about 80 years. There are a number of aged persons in this City and county, some of them ranging from 75 to 90 years. In riding out in the country the other day we met a colored man now in his 105th year. These facts speak well for the longevity of the citizens of Eastern North Carolina.

☞ There are a good many people who are anxious to see the NORTH CAROLINIAN every week, and who like to read it, but who have not subscribed for it. They depend on borrowing it. This is an annoyance to their neighbors who take and pay for the paper, and it is unjust to the publisher. The prime object of the NORTH CAROLINIAN is to improve, build up and develop this country, and every man who wishes to see these desirable objects accomplished ought to patronize it. The better it is sustained by the people the more it can accomplish in the good work. It only costs $2 a year.

☞ The Jurors appointed by the Mayor and Commissioners to condemn the property on Sheppard street, necessary to properly widen it, and to assess the damages to the same, performed their duty on Monday. There will be a good, commodious side walk on both sides of this street, which, since it has already become the public promenade of the City, is a necessity. Most of the property holders in view of the fact that the improvement will add to the value of their lots, voluntarially released the number of feet necessary for the side walk. This will soon be the handsomest street in the City.

☞ Accepting the offer of a kind and thoughtful friend we took a pleasant ride out into the country the other day. We found the crops generally looking well. The Cotton is growing rapidly, and the present prospect is that the Corn will be a more than average crop. We saw one little patch of a hundred and forty acres, belonging to GEO. D. POOL, Esq., which will average twelve feet in height. We never saw such a field of corn before—so even, so rank, and so thick set with ears. The land is not naturally so much better than the fields around it, but the secret of the success is in cultivation and clover. He believes in raising clover and he believes in good plowing. These will tell everywhere, and especially in this country.

☞ Lightning conductors frequently have not as good a connection with the earth as they should have. A lightning conductor having its earth extremity partially insulated soon becomes charged if a storm passes over it and then a lateral discharge takes place; hence the accidents which have frequently taken place in buildings supposed to be adequately protected. Sand and gravel, brickwork and stone are bad conductors of electricity, and if the rod has such a base, and the surrounding earth be likewise dry it is practically insulated. The difficulty of getting what telegraphic operators called on good earth is one that should weigh with those putting up lightning conductors. They should not rest satisfied that all is secure unless they can reach a running stream of water, or else sink a considerable of the rod till permanently damp earth is reached.

☞ We call attention to the certificates, letters etc., vindicating Col. MCLINDSEY. As he states it in his card they "speak for themselves."

☞ How do the old line Whigs of Camden like to vote for WILLIAMS for Convention? They haven't forgotten how he treated them when in the legislature.

☞ In reply to a correspondent we would say that from reliable reports received from all parts of the State we believe the Convention will be defeated by over 20,000 majority.

☞ Communications reaching us Tuesday evenings are generally too late for the issue of that week. The paper—excepting local matter and the latest news—is all set up by that time.

☞ By Advertisement it will be seen that the firm of ALLEN & Brother will be dissolved by mutual consent on Sept. 1st. The business will be continued at the old stand by C. C. ALLEN.

☞ The people of Hertford county, opposed to Convention, met at Winton on the the 3rd inst., and nominated Col. Geo. H. MITCHELL as the anti-Convention candidate. Proceedings reached us too late for this issue.

☞ There will be a large Anti-Convention Mass Meeting in Weldon on Saturday which will be addressed by Hon. C. L. COBB, U. S. Attorney General ACKERMAN, U. S. Senator HARLAN and others.

☞ It must be refreshing (?) to the feulings of "our Senator"—a life long, proud and defiant old line Whig—to have old Democrats patting him on the shoulder, congratulating him on his landing into their party at last!

☞ A Northern correspondent asks us. "How about the mosquitoes at Elizabeth City?" We answer, they do not trouble us. Indeed we have not been as much annoyed by them as we were at Bloomsburg, Pa. Happily this section is almost entirely exempt from these little sleep disturbers.

☞ If any of the Democratic stump speakers in this District who denounced the Republican State Board of Education for selling a portion of the Swamp Lands of the State for $50,000, has made the amende honorable we would like to be informed of the fact. On the stump last year they slandered the Board, robbing it of its fair fame by charging it with official corruption, but which one of them has had the honesty to acknowledge the slander? We have not yet heard of one.

☞ The warm weather is now fairly upon us and during its continuance business will be "sort o' dull." To fill up our local department will require an effort,—there will so little occur to employ our facile pen. The truth is, the warm weather is wilting the starch from the bosom of society and dullness is beginning to settle on the town. Our Devil says it is too warm even for flirtation; that Cupid is divesting himself of his bow and arrows, and sits fanning his little body under the umbrageous branches of the ever green. The beaux are limp, and the belles are sighing to be off to enjoy the breeze from the sea at Nag's Head. When they depart it will be dull enough.

OUR LOCAL PORT-FOLIO.

The new place of attraction—at Mr. Fowler's store. Joint proprietors—our Butchers. The Board of Trade—the counter. The rogues policy—non-committal. Healthful diet—tomatoes. Bumps of curiosity—chignons. A "cut and dried" affair—jerked beef. Getting quite fashionable—to look over the NORTH CAROLINIAN to see who will give the best bargains in goods. A golden wedding—marrying for money. An ill-bred man—a sick baker. Kitchen dressers—fine cooks. The best men to buy of—those who advertise in the NORTH CAROLINIAN. Men of note—musicians. The greatest want of the age—want of funds. People who imagine they have a claim to rob you if you are rich, and to insult you if you are poor—distant relations. How to serve a dinner—eat it. Slight of hand—refusing an offer. Still kept busy giving 'em "fits"—Dr. Krebbs & Co., at their Tailoring establishment. Closed out—Mr. Whitcomb's grocery. Under way—Dr. Butt's new house. A favorite with the ladies—the NORTH CAROLINIAN. Beginning to migrate—many of our families to Nag's Head. Now feels comfortable—the man who "couldn't stand it any longer" and took a seat. At work—the hands on the streets, at the rate of ten a day. The best form—reform. Lame conclusions—sore feet.

The Steamer Hertford makes regular trips to and from Nag's Head twice every week.

The Proceedings of City Commissioners.

MAYOR'S OFFICE E. CITY, July 3rd, 1871.

The Board met at the Mayor's office. Present his Honor Mayor Cobb and Commissioners Underwood, Pool, Commander, Davis and Guirkin. The proceedings of the last meeting were read and approved.

Geo. D. Pool the Treasurer elect presented his bond which was accepted. Also Joseph Commander, Clerk elect, presented his bond which was accepted. J. H. Miskell, Constable elect, presented his bond which was accepted.

Ordered: that a Committee of three of the Commissioners of this Town be appointed by the Mayor to examine into the necessity or advisibility of opening new streets, or of extinguishing or repairing old streets in this Town—that they consider any applicaton for this purpose that may come before them—and report to the next ragular meeting of this Board.

Ordered: that a finance Committee cousisting of Charles Guirkin, Miles Commander and W. G. Pool be appointed to examine into the finance condition of this Town, as it existed on the 5th of May last, and report the same to this Board and that the report be published in the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

On motion of Dr. W. G. Pool the following jurors, freeholders, were appointed to condemn and assess the damages done in widening Shepperd street, viz: R. F. Overman, Dr. P. John, G. D. Pool, G. W. Bell, S. Weisel, W. H, Smith, C. B. Brothers, Dr. J. N, Butt, C. C. Green, Jabez Pritchard, Jno. A. Raper and Selim Sutton. The Constable was ordered to notify the said jurors to meet on the 10th instant.

On motion it was ordered that the Tax List be copied in the Minute Book and a copy be handed to the Constable with orders to collect the same within sixty (60) days.

On motion it was resolved that no person shall be compelled to work on the streets exceeding three days during the present administration.

G. W. COBB, Mayor.

JOSEPH COMMANDER, Clerk.

His Honor Judge Moore, of the Second Judicial District, has been appointed to hold special terms of Cabarrus and Mecklenburg Superior courts. The court in Cabarrus will commence on the 3d Monday in July, and the Mecklenburg court on the 4th Monday. Only civil cases will be tried.

1861—1871.—In 1861, when the same men who are now mouthing so furiously for a Convention, says the Asheville Pioneer, were following the courts at the spring terms, with brass bands, &c., and were lustily calling on the people to vote for a Convention, the people were told it would result in War, but these leaders said nay. What was the result? In addition, the people were told that whatever was done in Convention, should be referred back to them to vote for or against its ratification. The ordinance of secession was adopted, and the State was plunged into War and Ruin, but the people were not allowed to vote on its ratification or rejection. We tell the people, the same game is being played now. What can the people expect from such men as composed the last Legislature of North Carolina. The people will be allowed no vote on the ratification of this revolutionary proceeding, and we tell them further, this strife will end in bloodshed. Watch and wait. These leaders will ruin you again, if you give them the opportunity. It is only ten years ago, yet you followed their counsels then and it has led you through darkness, blood and death. It will do so again.

A HEARTLESS WOMAN.—Mrs. Lydia Sherman was arrested at New Brunswick on Friday last by officers from Connecticut, who charge her with having poisoned, at different times, three husbands and two step-children, the offspring of her last husband by a former marriage.

This woman married a Jerseyman nearly ten years ago, and after having lived with him three years he died suddenly, and under circumstances which occasioned considerable comment. The second husband was married in Connecticut, and died under equally suspicious circumstances, but as nothing was there known of the former mystery no action was taken. Early in 1870, at Derby, Conn, the woman married Neilson H. Sherman, a widower with two children, one six and the other fifteen years old. Within nine months these three died, all under the same unaccountable circumstances. On being charged with the crimes she manifested surprise, either real or very well assumed. She gave no appearance of guilt, and beyond the simple surprise and the assertion of her innocence did not seem to be at all affected.

AGRICULTURAL, HORTICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC MATTERS.

The Blight in Pear Trees.

Several nurseymen in Geneva, New York, says the Horticulturist, are now using salt freely in their pear nurseries, at from 200 to 4000 lbs. per acre yearly, and say that it has wholesome tendency to correct the disposition to blight, as also to prevent it for the future. Certain it is that where used therehave been less indications of its prevalence than in other parts where it is not used. We believe the salt is yet to play a very important part in our agriculture and horticulture as a top dressing or for mixture with concentrated manure. It is now, together with iime, the very best of all applications to mix with muck and reduce it to a friable condition. Iron shavings, copperas in solution, have also been used, as as also potash manure, and been found of special efficacy in resorting the trees to full health and renewed vigor. An instance in point is just related by a correspondent of the Rural Messenger:

"I had a very fine pear tree (Flemish Beauty,) that became affected, first by blight in one limb, which I removed, and then another and another was affected in the same way, until I had removed a considerable portion of the top of the tree. Early next spring I resolved to try the application of scrap iron to the roots.—I procured my iron, removed the soil from the roots carefully, deposited the iron between them, and replaced the earth. There was no further progress in the blight, the tree continued to grow that season, and the next leaves and blossoms came out vigorously, no black spots appeared on the leaves and the leaves and the tree bore finely, and no appearance of disease was in the tree afterward. In subsequent conversation with friends I found that some of them had become informed on the same subject, and had tried the same remedy with perfect success. Some told me that they had procured turning and drilling chips from the machine shops and had used them as they thought, with much advantage to their trees.

Scab on Sheep.

Tobacco will cure scab on sheep, and this is the way to do it: For one hundred sheep take eight or ten pounds of tobacco to one hundred or one hundred and twenty gallons of water boiled down about one tenth; if your sheep are newly sheared dip them in the liquor.

So far as my observation extends, the scab generally shows itself in the fall or early winter the treatment should be promptly attended to as soon as the disease is discovered. Feed freely of sulphur with salt at least three times a week. If in the fall or winter, or any time when the wool is long, prepare tobacco as above in a large vessel so as to keep it warm: apply to the ears, open the wool on the back and pour on the liquid freely the full length of the back. If used freely it runs nearly all over the body. Examine carefully and apply freely wherever there is any appearance of infection. In this way I have three times effectually cured the scab in the winter, without any great loss of wool. When treating in summer I have fed rosin with the sulphur and salt, with very satisfactory results. I have known several flocks effectually cured in midwinter treated as last described. I would recommend that as soon as sheared in the spring they be dipped in the solution.—Cor. Prairie Farmer.

Preserving Farm Tools.

Every farmer should have a can of linseed oil and a brush on hand, and whenever he buys a new tool he should soak it well with the oil and dry it by the fire or in the sun before using. The wood by this treatment is toughened and strengthened and rendered impervious to water. Wet a new hay rake, and when it dries it will begin to be loose in the joints; but if well oiled the wet will have but slight effect. Shovels and forks are preserved from chocking and cracking in the top of the handle by oiling; the wood becomes as smooth as glass by use, and is far less liable to blister the hand when long used. Axe and hammer handles often break off where the wood enters the iron; this part particularly should be toughened with oil, to secure durability. Oiling the wood in the eye of the axe will prevent its swelling and shrinking and sometimes getting loose. The tools on a large farm cost a large sum of money; they should be of the most approved kinds. It is poor economy at the present extravagant price of labor to set men to work with ordinary old-fashioned implements. Laborers should be required to return their tools to the convenient places provided for them; after using they should be put away clean and bright. The moldboards of plows are apt to get rusty from one season to another; even if sheltered they should be brushed over with a few drops of oil when put away, and will then remain in good order till wanted.—Farm Journal.

Goats and Rats.

A correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph says: Being sadly plagued with rats about my house and farm buildings, I tried in vain to catch them; they are too cunning to be trapped, and to lay poison I dare not for fear of killing my dogs, cats, and hogs, and to wait for them with a gun was a loss of too much time, though I have dropped three at a shot. At last I purchased two goats, which I kept about my fold, barn and stables, the pig styes being in the fold. In a short time all the rats emigrated—they evacuated the place, cleared right out, every Jack of them, and I have not seen a single rat about the place for up wards of three years, but my neighbors who are within eighty rods have plenty of all sizes and ages. Perhaps it is not generally known that where there are many horses stabled together very little sickness prevails if there is a goat kept about the yard and stables.

Packing Eggs to Keep Through Hot Weather.

The most certain and most lasting mode of preservation consists in covering the eggs in a jar filled with lime water, recently prepared and keeping them in a cool place. The lime water is prepared from quicklime, or that which has been slacked but lately, by placing it in a quantity of water greater than would cover the eggs. The milk of lime which is thus formed is allowed to stnnd several hours. The clear liquid which separates itself from the excess of lime used is the lime water which is poured off for use. Lime water not only prevents the evaporation, since the eggs are plunged in the liquid, but the alkali which it holds in solution closes the pores of the shell and prevents all fermentation, either of the eggs or of the organic matter which the water might contain.

The Fourth of July passed quietly in Salt Lake City, the Mormon "Lieutenant-General" having countermanded the order for the parade of the Nauvoo Legiod. This change of mind was effected by the determined attitude of the United States officers and the presence of a strong body of United States troops in the city. The processions of the Mormons and Liberals were very fine.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the socibility of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post-office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3,000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3,000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C, 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3,500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A tract of valuable land, containing 356 acres, with fine two story dwelling containing 9 rooms and cook-room. Servant's house with 3 rooms, large barn and stables, all necessary and convenient out-houses, 3 tenant-houses near town, and immediately on the River. About 100 acres of this land is in fine wood and timber, balance in a fine state of cultivation. It has 8,000 grape vines one year old, 3,500 peach, apple and dwarf pear trees, five acres in strawberries which yielded an immence profit this year, ten acres in Lawton and other rare varieties of black-berries, 15 to 20,000 young peach trees with other choice fruits too numerous to mention. This farm has a public road on one side, and the River on the other, where strangers come daily to the landings to receive the fruits and vegetables, and carry them down to Norfolk, Baltimore, Phila., or New York. The land is finely adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, and all other field crops.

The owner of this farm offers to sell in tracts, to suit purchasers, say in 50 to 100 acre tracts, and at prices ranging from 35 to $80 per acre, according to location, buildings, &c.

There is also on this farm a fine fishery, where a seine 1,000 yards long, and 20 feet deep is hauled every Spring. Herring, Shad, Rock-fish, Sturgeon and other valuable fish, are caught by thousands at every draw of the seine. And the profits are frequently large. This fishery of itself is worth nearly as much as is charged for the whole property. The terms will be liberal. This is probably the finest opportunity offered any where for a profitable investment.

☞ Fishery has an office, and two houses for hands besides fish house. Then some 500 to 1,000 loads of best fish manure on hand, besides over 5,000 loads of compost made ready for use. This goes with the farm.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

BONE DUST.—The subscriber has just erected at his Farm, near the city, the most improved machinery for making BONE DUST, and is now ready to fill orders for any quantity, which will be delivered at the shortest notice.

The BONE DUST will be finer than any heretofore made by him, (no chemical process resorted to,) enabling the Farmer or Planter to sow it with a Drill.

Mr. Samuel Sands, well kuown to the Farmers and Planters of the United States as the former Editor of the "American Farmer and Rural Register," will have charge of his office, NO. 63 S. GAY STREET, near Pratt, and will be happy to receive the visits or orders of his old friends.

$45 per ton, put in new bags. No charge for bags.

Farmers and others are invited to visit my works. I have nothing to conceal.

My men have nothing nice to perform, therefore I have no "non-admittance" signs on my premises. Persons are free to examine my factory, and the modus operandi of Dust making.

I cannot afford to pay 5, 10 or 20 per cent. to commission merchants, as my profits do not exceed 10 per cent.

Bone Dust, as manufacured by me, is A simple, and its quality cannot be made to conform to the price.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY having a large amount of Real Estate of their own to dispose of, and their business having increased to such an extent, they think it prudent to decline acting further as Commission Agents for the sale of lands belonging to others. They will however be glad at all times to furnish every facility to parties coming to Elizabeth City with a desire to look at the country and make purchases if they find it to their interest to do so.

The following list of property, owned by the Company, is offered for sale on the most reasonable terms. Their object now is to acquire a larger monied capital for the purpose of further developing their unimproved lands and carrying out their original design of increasing the Commerce and General Trade of Elizabeth City.

As there are others in the Commission Business, parties are referred to their advertisement for further information.

ELIZABETH CITY.

The following desirable list of Properties in Elizabeth City are offered at very reduced prices for cash or on time payments at rates which make any of them excellent investments for capitalists. We feel confident that this City is destined to become a large place and property will advance rapidly. Emigration is now tending Southernward and the feeling is in universal favor toward Elizabeth City.

A large two-story dwelling known as the Parsonage, with fine double Piazza, front and back, large out kitchen, stables, carriage house, with 17 acres of ground well enclosed. This ground is all within the corporation of the City, and is well situated to lay out in building lots and make out of it ten fold the price asked for it.

A two-story dwelling containing ten rooms, 10,000 gallon cistern and all necessary out-houses, with large lot. Situated on Main Street. A Vacant Lot no better located and not so large as this was sold recently for $1600 cash.

A large brick store house and wharf situate on Water street; in E. City, comprising three lots with 400 feet of water front, permanently wharfed for the accommodation of large vessels. There is erected on these lots a large two-story brick building, 50 by 80 feet, well fitted up for a wholesale or retail trade at present occupied by the "Yankee Store."

A large wood store on west side of Water street 36 by 60, two stories high, being one of the best stands on Water street for merchandizing.

A House and Lot on Riverside Avenue. House 20ft front by 50 ft deep. Containing eight rooms with Pantry and Cellar, all well finished, modern style, and having all necessary out buildings. The lot contains a front of 400 ft, and would be a good location for a large shop or foundry as one whole side fronts on the water.

Also a large number of Wharf Lots, Mill Lots and Vacant Lots at very low prices, some of which are enumerated below. The Wharf Lots are 200ft deep and will be sold to any size desired along the River. Among them are some most eligible situations for Store Houses, Mills and Manufactories of any kind as there is a fine harbor immediately in front of them, having 30ft of water, sufficient for vessels of any capacity. Along Pennsylvania Avenue are offered some of the finest and choicest lots, for dwellings in town at prices varying according to location. This will be the finest street in town, is 80 feet wide, size of Lot 100ft front by 200ft deep. There are now a number of first class residences being erected on this street. Immediately in the vicinity of these Lots the Company have erected a large Planing Mill, Sash, Blind and Door Factory at a cost of near $20,000 and also their Saw Mill at a cost of near $15,000. That now is the proper time to invest in those Lots there can be no doubt, as they will double in value in a very short time. Lots not near so good as these, are now selling in other parts of the City at more than double the price asked for these.

VACANT LOTS.

Lots Nos. 150, 155, 158, 161, 163, 165, 167, 170, 172, 175, 178, 180, 182, 185, 187, 190, 193, 195, 198 and 200, situate on Pennsylvania avenue, in the new extension of Elizabeth City, all choice lots, intended for the better class of residences. Size of lots 100 feet front by 200 feet deep. Price varying, according to location, from $100 to $1000.

TOWN LOTS.

Lots Nos. 250, 253, 255, 256, 258, 261, 263, 266, 267, 268, 271, 283, 285, 287, 288, 289, 291, 296, 299 and 300, situated on various Streets in the new extension of Elizabeth City, size of lots 50 feet front by 100 feet deep, at prices varying from $25 to $100.

MILL LOTS.

Four Mill-Lots situated on Knobb's Creek, so that logs can be taken from the creek to the mill. These lots have 200 feet each of water front, and over 600 feet deep to Mill street, and are choice sites. The purchaser will also have the right of storage for logs in the boom.

PASQUOTANK COUNTY.

The Land and Lumber Company also offer for sale, one thousand acres of their timbered land along the Main Road leading from Elizabeth City to Hertford and Edenton, Said land heavily wooded, soil very rich and about four miles from Elizabeth City. This land will be sold in lots to suit purchasers and at the low price of ten dollars per acre.

They also offer a tract of three thousand acres in Lots to suit purchasers, near the Pasquotank River, ten miles from Elizabeth City and three miles from South Mills. This land is heavily set with wood and also has upon it a vast amount of saw timber, and has a most excellent soil. This is a fine location for a small Colony. There is now a Public Road running directly through it. This tract is offered at the low price of eight dollars per acre if sold to one party, or at only a fraction more if divided into small lots.

The Company will also sell their farm of 250 acres two miles from Elizabeth City. 125 acres cleared and under good cultivation, well fenced, having upon it two dwelling houses, one new and the necessary out buildings wanted on a farm, and will be sold on very reasonable terms.

Also another farm one mile from Elizabeth City containing one hundred acres, between thirty and forty acres cleared and under cultivation, the balance is now being cut off and is nearly ready to be cleared up and cultivated. This property is very desirable being so near the City though for reasons first given will be sold at a very low price.

We have a finely timbered tract of land situated on the Albemarle Sound twenty miles from Elizabeth City, containing 124 acres. Good timber land bordering on the water is valuable both for wood as well as saw timber as water transportation affords a good margin for wood, say one dollar per cord. This will also make good farm land—will be sold for one thousand dollars.

Also one other tract of land containing 154 acres situated immediately on the Pasquotank River ten miles from Elizabeth City, valuable for wood, and is excellent farming lands, would be sold for six dollars per acre.

GATES COUNTY.

The Land & Lumber Company have a tract of 350 acres of timbered land one half mile from Chowan River and three miles from Winton the county seat of Hertford county. This body of land is well timbered and will be sold at the low price of three dollars per acre.

☞ The most direct and cheapest route is to go to Baltimore by N. C. R. R., then Bay Line steamer to Norfolk, Va., then steamer to Elizabeth City, N. C.

THE CHEAP STOVE STORE,
No. 4 WIDE WATER STREET,
NORFOLK, VIRGINIA.

Having the largest and most complete assortment of Cook and Heating Stoves to be found south of Baltimore, I can offer inducements to buyers which cannot be found elsewhere. Parties in want of stoves will find it to their interest to give us a call before purchasing, as I am determined to sell as low as the Northern cities. Every stove sold by me warranted, and if it does not prove as represented, the money will be returned. (Forty-five pieces of furniture with each cook stove.)

I have also on hand a full stock of Tin Ware, Japanned Ware, Lamp Goods of all kind, Toilet Ware, &c., wholesale and retail.

☞ Guttering, Roofing, and Repairing, of all kinds, done in the best manner and on the most reasonable terms.
